Monmade's intention for this competition was to support regional manufacturing and sourcing, provide durable, functional, and scalable products, and inspire design teams to think outside-the-box for products that fill a local market-driven need. What transpired were solutions that are not only made responsibly, but use innovative materials and solve challenges with waste stream supply and recycling.

The winning products and their design teams have introduced innovative environmentally conscious products that encompass social responsibility and tell a compelling story behind their inspired designs.

"The One Green Product competition has confirmed what we already know to be true, Pittsburgh designers are ready and eager to develop world class products that add value to communities. Although we can only select 3 products, every entry was well thought out and the competition was stiff. We are looking forward to cultivating more opportunities for sustainable product development and showcasing the world class talent we have in our region." says Katie Schaible, Director at Monmade.

NEXT STEPS... Bringing these products to market is what Monmade does best. The grant funding awarded to the design teams will go directly into product development with hopes to reduce the environmental footprint of products and local artisan producers fulfill their goals.
